by Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart

Don Giovanni
a notorious womanizer

Leporello
his servant

Don Ottavio
Anna's fiancé

Donna Anna
a noblewoman

The Commendatore
Anna's father

Zerlina
a peasant girl

Donna Elvira
a noblewoman

Masetto
Zerlina's fiancé

In disguise, Don Giovanni attempts to seduce Donna Anna, who resists him.

His servant, Leporello, keeps watch outside.

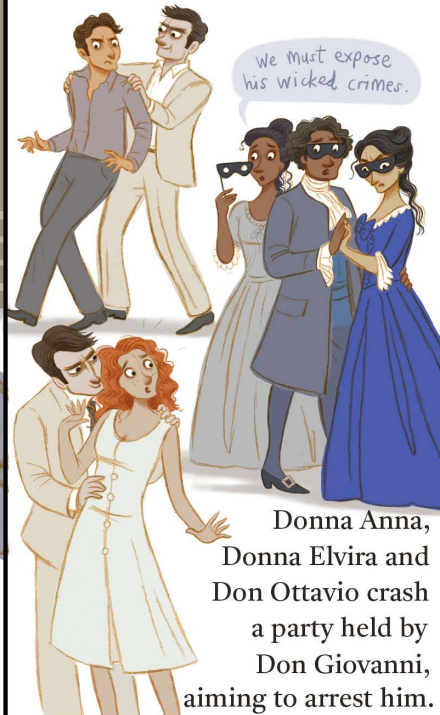

Donna Anna's outraged father, the Commendatore, challenges Don Giovanni to a duel and is slain.

Later, Don Giovanni runs into an old flame, Donna Elvira. He hides while Leporello reads her a list of the thousands of women that Giovanni has seduced.

In Don Giovanni's next escapade, he attempts to woo Zerlina on the day she is to marry Masetto.

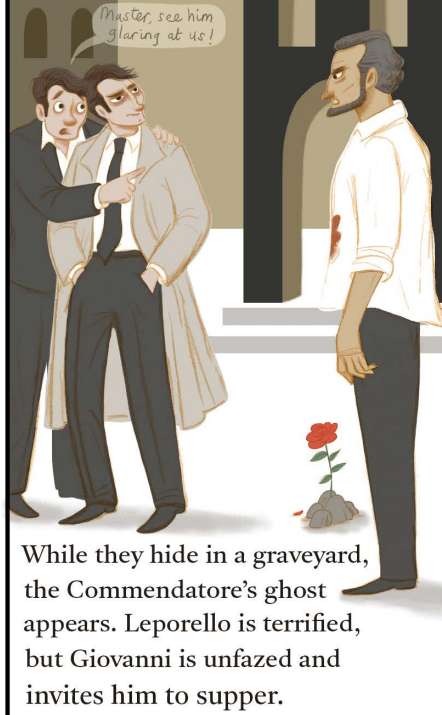

In disguise,
"Leporello"
beats up Masetto,

while "Giovanni" woos
Donna Elvira.

While they hide in a graveyard,
the Commendatore's ghost appears. Leporello is terrified, but Giovanni is unfazed and invites him to supper.

That evening,
the ghost of the Commendatore
bursts into
Don Giovanni's house,
bellowing a warning.

An unrepentant Don Giovanni is engulfed by flames and carried down to hell.
